Vislink plc, UK based parent company of WTS, purchases Pacific Microwave Research (PMR). Commenting on the acquisition, Ian Scott-Gall, Chief Executive of Vislink, said: "We are pleased with the acquisition of PMR, which enhances our product portfolio for the important LES markets. We will integrate PMR's business into the groups US operations whilst coordinating its international sales through our affiliates, thereby building our position as a global player in this exciting market".

Looking forward, PMR will concentrate on LES sales and new product development for the Vislink Group. PMR will be the Americas research and new product development center of excellence for LES microwave development and will work closely with Link Research, MRC, WTS and the Vislink CTO to coordinate microwave activities throughout the Group.
